

Under A Glassdome

in time
loose time
words rose
out and up

as words
of timeless time
reached the dome
its glass shattered
to the breathing air

0

the carp
that ate your child
is still full and swimming underneath the grate to your feet

I lure the carp out of the murky pond

